Snowdon's reeve is new warden

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

Snowdon Reeve George Simmons has been chosen to lead Haliburton County Council during 1992.

At a special meeting last Tuesday, Simmons was the only politician nominated for the position of warden and accepted the robe of office from past-warden Carol Puffer.

In his inaugural address, Simmons warned of the challenges Haliburton County will face in the coming year and called on councillors to put the interests of the entire county ahead of the individual municipalities.

"Frankly, without a significant atmosphere of co-operation and compromise in how we collectively deal with the issues which lie ahead, we cannot succeed and we will have done a lasting disservice to the residents we are elected to serve," he said.

"Our collective sense of community must extend beyond our municipal boundaries to encompass the county as a whole. Gone are the days when local rivalries can serve to benefit one over another, we must work collectively to solve problems in the spirit of what is beneficial to the entire county."

In outlining his goals for the coming year, Simmons highlighted three specific objectives.

He suggested that county council meet every month instead of the usual eight meetings a year. While the additional four meetings will cost the county $6,800, Simmons said it's essential for council to meet monthly to address immediate problems. At the regular meeting of council on Wednesday, councillors passed a resolution to increase the number of meetings.

Simmons also said the county has to proceed with the construction of the 18-bed chronic care addition to the Haliburton Hospital.

"The province approved the blueprints for the addition and with a deep recession, the need for employment is immediate. That is why we should be pushing for local tenders to start this project immediately," he said.

His third suggestion was that all councillors attend the February 7 seminar in Peterborough being sponsored by the provincial association of municipalities.

To the 28 per cent of the county's workforce which is currently unemployed, Simmons made a "passionate plea" for increased community involvement.

"Please volunteer your time to you communities. Be an asset to you community, not a burden," he said. "Pennies don't fall from heaven, they have to be earned and volunteering to help service clubs, elderly and whenever there is a need will instill pride in everyone, that we can come out of this recession together."

Simmons was first elected to county council in 1988 when he defeated long-time Snowdon reeve Bob Vick. In last month's elections, Simmons was returned to office by acclamation and is one of only six county councillors returning from last term.

New Warden George Simmons shows the host of studies and reports he thinks all councillors should be familiar with for the coming year, which he says is going to be one of the most important in Haliburton County's history.

Minden waits for arena lawsuit decision

Minden's lawsuit against the builders of the village arena has wrapped up and both sides are waiting for the judge to make her decision.

The municipality is suing the contractor and architect who worked on the arena during construction in 1972 because it claims that illegal building practices resulted in extensive damage to the arena's steel frame.

During two weeks of testimony, the municipality and the defense presented evidence in support of their cases. The trial ended on Dec. 7, but the judge has reserved her decision to study the technical evidence and look at relevant precedences.

Reeve Bern Berry says the township is awaiting the decision and is expecting a favourable outcome, although he says it may take several weeks for the judge to reach a verdict.

The lawsuit was initiated in 1989 after a routine inspection of the arena showed that the steel girders which make up the frame of the building had been corroded.

Robert McEwen, the engineer who conducted the inspection, said calcium salts had been mixed with the mortar during the construction and had caused the corrosion.

Calcium salts prevent mortar from freezing during cold weather construction but the practice contravenes the Ontario Building Code.

Ron Harrison, the architect who was involved with the arena construction, says calcium was not used in the mortar and disputes the municipality's claim about the damage caused from corrosion.

During the repair process, which included dismantling the arena walls and replacing some of the steel, the municipality also proceeded with an expansion of the community centre and is planning a future addition to the arena to provide dressing rooms at the back of the building.

The municipality has undertaken a fundraising campaign to pay for the expansion, which should be completed early in the New Year.

Village trail search is on

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

All revved up and no where to go.

With the start of another snowmobile season just a snowfall away, Minden council is grappling with the problem of how to get snowmobilers through the village.

In past years, snowmobilers travelling north through the village have used a vacant lot on North Water Street to get to the park.

This year the Haliburton County Snowmobile Association (HCSA) can't use the vacant lot and has asked council to come up with an alternate route from the bridge to the arena.

The association does not want to use Bobcaygeon Road north because they feel the snowmobilers could disrupt the funeral home.

Council had been working on a plan to send the snowmobilers down Orde Street once they cross the bridge. The riders would then turn near the sewage treatment plant and run along side Deep Bay Road back toward Bobcaygeon Road.

But at last Thursday's council meeting a petition, objecting to the new route and signed by Orde Street residents, was presented by Changing of the guard

Haliburton County's new Warden, George Simmons, presents past-Warden Carol Puffer with a certificate in recognition of her leadership during the past year. Puffer was the reeve of Lutterworth but has retired from municipal politics to pursue other interests. Simmons, who is beginning his second term as reeve of Snowdon, was the only nominee for the head of county council during last Tuesday's ceremony.

Kinmount bank re-opens after residents object

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

The Kinmount sub-agency of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce has re-opened with a security guard on duty, after being closed only a week.

Senior management decided to close the office in response to the perceived threat of armed robberies. The office, which is open three days a week, is not a full branch and does not have standard security features like a vault.

But the decision was criticized by local residents and businesses and by last Monday the office had re-opened.

"Customers were inconvenienced and, from the time it was closed, every effort was made to re-open it as soon as possible," said Karen Acton, manager of the Coboconk branch, which oversees operation of the Kinmount office. She said senior management made the decision to post the security guard, who also travels with the employees from the Coboconk branch to the Kinmount office and back again.

The bank's quick action in getting the office up and running again may be attributed to the public outcry which followed the closure.

Diane Longmuire, of Kirk's Auto and Truck Repair, said she and several other Kinmount businesses launched a phone campaign to have the sub-agency re-opened.

"I spent two days on the phone and talked to a senior vice-president and district manager and told them our concerns," she said.

Longmuire said what really set her off was the fact that bank officials said they couldn't afford to provide additional security to the Kinmount office and, on the same day the office closed, the media was reporting that Canada's major banks posted record profits this year.

"I told them that if they had a profit of $8.9 million, they could afford a few hundred dollars for a security guard," she said. "And on Monday morning, that's exactly what they did."

During the week that the branch was closed, Longmuire said businesses were reluctant to travel to Coboconk with their deposits. While some people wanted to transfer their accounts to another bank, Longmuire said it was more important to fight the CIBC decision and pressure the bank to re-open the Kinmount office.

"If we transferred banks, it would have never re-opened. They were testing us and if we survived the Christmas rush, it would have given them a reason not to re-open for the three days a week."

Longmuire said the incident offers proof that residents in small communities are not helpless when it comes to defending their services.

"I feel all of us together made a difference," she said. "If anyone else tries stepping on the little guy in our town, we know we can band together and do something about it."

Margaret Miller chosen as Rotary Citizen of the Year

Margaret Miller has been chosen by the Rotary Club of Minden as the community's Citizen of the Year.

The presentation of the award was made at the club's regular meeting last Monday evening. Jean Bowron, a close friend of Margaret, provided the introduction leading up to the presentation.

She described Margaret Miller as the sort of person who makes a good neighbour, volunteer and citizen. Jean related how she and her husband were expecting a number of seniors from the Keswick area. They were visiting the Highlands during the autumn to enjoy the coloured leaves.

"Margaret heard we were having the visitors and took the day off and came over to give us a hand," Jean said. "She is always willing to give anyone a helping hand."

Jean told the club members that, over the years, Margaret Miller has been associated with local hockey clubs, the figure skating club, been a member of Haliburton County Agricultural Society (sponsors of the county fair), assisted at the annual Beef Barbecue, drives people who do not have transportation to appointments, actively takes part in church functions, has opened her home and heart to children and has made an effort to be of assistance whenever and whenever needed.

"If there is a death in our neighbourhood," Jean explained, "Margaret is the first to plan a meal for the family so they don't have to worry about food." She is equally quick to respond for special occasions like showers and anniversaries.

Jean noted that in a spontaneous act of Christmas charity, Margaret bakes numerous batches of tarts at Christmas time and delivers them to local offices for the enjoyment of the staff. "No doubt some of you have sampled them," she added.

"Margaret is a real friend to me. We have laughed together, cried together and," she added with a chuckle, "even gone through red lights together.....(I wasn't driving)."

Margaret is a wife, mother, and grandmother, Jean pointed out, "and has served her community as a census taker, deputy returning officer, poll clerk, waitress, cook, cleaning lady.....a comforter to many and my, personal psychologist."

She concluded by saying that Margaret Miller has helped many people in our community, often touching the lives of individuals who were not aware of the special love and caring was coming from her.

Rotary President Ron Gambell then presented Margaret Miller with the plaque naming her the community's citizen of the year. He said after the ceremonies that her dedication and hard work made Margaret Miller most worthy of the special recognition of the award.

In addition to the award, the Rotary Club will make a donation of $250 in her name to the charity of her choice.

Margaret Miller accepts the Citizen of the Year award from Ron Gambell.

Council looks for new trail

Dorian Malloy.

Malloy said the all the residents on Orde Street are "very, very against" the proposed route and are concerned about the noise and safety risk presented by the snowmobilers.

The eight homes along the street would get a "double whammy" as the sleds travel along the front of their properties down Orde Street and along the back of their homes down the trail beside Deep Bay Road, he said.

Malloy suggested an alternate route be found, such as having the snowmobilers turn off Bobcaygeon Road and run beside the Times office to get to the fairgrounds.

Reeve Bern Berry said Minden's economy depends on tourism dollars and, with a local unemployment rate of 28 per cent, the town can't afford to turn away snowmobilers.

"If your proposal is not valid, would you advocate no more snowmobiles through the town of Minden?" he asked Malloy.

"I don't feel that way and I don't think anyone feels that way," replied Malloy. "We're not trying to shut out anyone's business."

"As long as it's not in your backyard," said

Deputy-Reeve Lewis Stevens. "I find it discouraging that we don't seem to have any way to get snowmobilers through town to the trails on the other side. The town shops need the input from tourists."

Councillor Jean Anthon sympathized with the concerns of the Orde Street homeowners. "I would find this offensive if I was a resident on the street," she said. "There is nothing wonderful about the sounds of snowmobiles."

"A sound that is less offensive is the sound of cash registers," said Stevens.

Berry said council has been presented with a "thorny problem" in trying to balance the economic benefits of snowmobilers against the concerns of town residents. "We have to come up with some sort of solution," he said.

Councillor Gerry Rome said council needs to work with the HCSA and the residents to work out a compromise. He also said that, unless council passes a restrictive by-law, they can't stop the snowmobiles from using any road, including Orde Street.

Council has directed Clayton Cameron, the public works superintendent, to work on finding an alternate snowmobile route through the village.

In the rush of events, we tend to overlook the important friendships that are the true basis of business relationships. One of the great pleasures of the Holiday Season is the opportunity to exchange greetings with those whose friendship and goodwill are valued so highly.

In this spirit it is a pleasure to say "Thank You" and extend sincere appreciation for the very pleasant association enjoyed with you.

May a bright and prosperous New Year bring happiness to you and yours.

Legion and bingo player dispute $400 jackpot

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

A Carnarvon resident has locked horns with the Kinmount Legion over a bingo jackpot worth $400.

Roy Vineham claims his wife Rose was cheated out of the jackpot at the regular bingo held at the Legion on Dec. 6, but the Legion says Rose was only eligible to win the consolation prize of $75, which she received.

The dispute arose from a jackpot game with a 58-number limit. Rose called bingo on what was assumed to be the 58th number and was declared the winner after her card was checked. However, a subsequent recount showed that 59 balls had been pulled from the machine and Rose was offered the consolation prize of $75, which she accepted.

In the week following the game, Vineham tried, without success, to have the Legion pay the $400 he claims his wife is entitled to. He has posted signs on his truck alleging that the bingo game is fixed.

"I'm not trying to get ugly," he said. "I've tried to be nice and I never flew off the handle."

Vineham says the caller had announced his wife as winner of the jackpot and had counted out the $400 prize but took the money back after the recount determined there were 59 balls on the board.

He maintains that the 59th number was never called and his wife won the game on 58 balls, entitling her to the full $400 prize.

Kinmount president Al Jopling says the caller miscounted the number of balls and the mistake was caught as soon as the bingo was called. He said several of the bingo players were keeping track of the number of balls and brought the error to the attention of the bingo chairman, which prompted the recount.

"She was eligible for the consolation prize, and that is what she got," he said. "She was never given the $400. The situation was explained to her and she seemed satisfied and went away happy."

Vineham says Rose did not argue at the time because she was afraid of losing even the $75 being offered.

He says in conversations with Legion members, they admit that Rose was declared winner of the $400 jackpot after the 58th number was called and he feels they should award the prize.

"I have a wife and four children, the $325 would be nice for Christmas" he says.

Jopling says he tried to be cooperative with Vineham and made a full investigation of the incident. If Rose had been eligible for the jackpot, Jopling says the Legion would have gladly paid her the money.

"There is no benefit to the Legion not to give out the jackpot," he said. "The more people who win, the better it is for us."

People who play the Legion bingo realize the game is honest, said Jopling. "If you mess around, too many people will come down on you and the Legion would lose half its income. If Mr. Vineham is trying to discredit the Legion and keep people from coming to the bingo games, he's barking up the wrong tree."

He said the Legion took the only course of action it could in paying the $75 consolation prize. "The bingo players would have been up in arms if we'd paid the jackpot. It's their money that they've invested in the game. It's not our money to give away under those circumstances."

He says there is no way an extra ball could have been added to the board after the game was over and the machine was turned off, and if there were 59 balls on the board there must have been 59 numbers called.

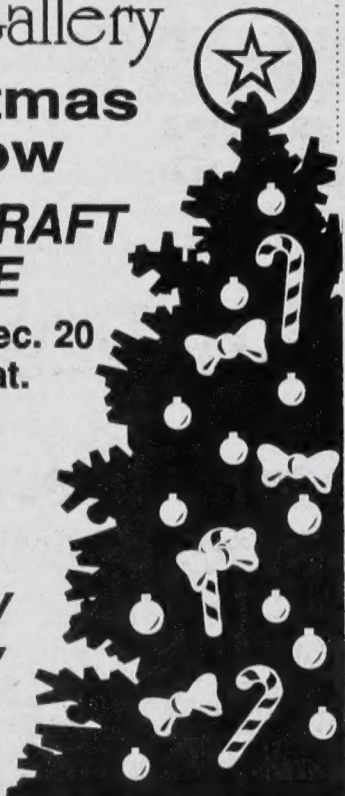

Carnarvon residen Roy Vineham has started a personal campaign against the Kinmount Legion after a dispute over a $400 bingo jackpot. He posted signs on his tow truck after he and the Legion failed to settle an argument about how many numbers were called at the December 6 game.

Council faces heavy agenda at first meeting

Somerville Briefs

by Jerry Grozelle

The latest members of Somerville Township Council took their oath of office December 3 at the Township office in Kinmount.

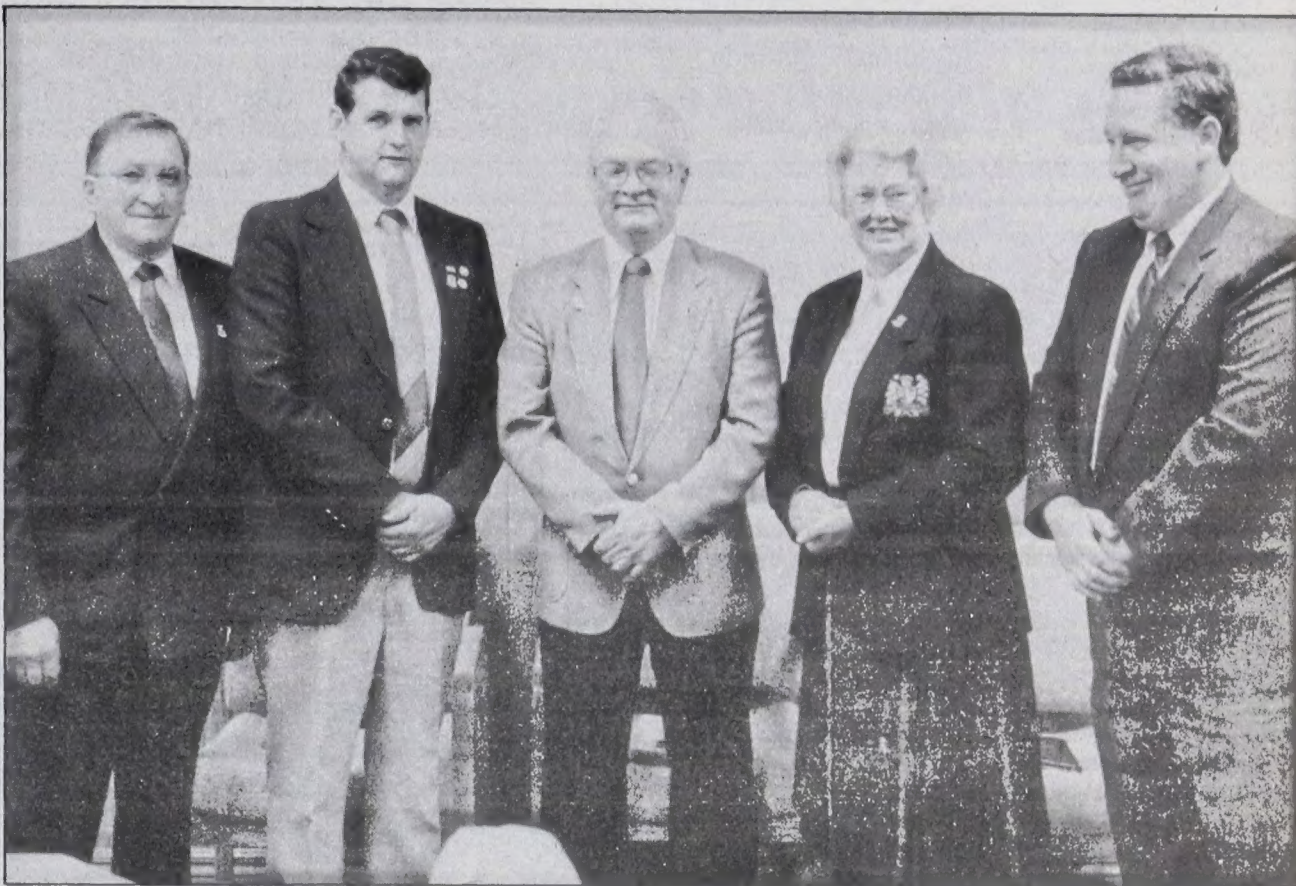

Deputy-Reeve Sue Douglas as well as Councillors Clayton Cameron and Gordon Carr returned from the previous council. They will be working with newly-elected Reeve John Huke and Councillor Jack MacDonald.

In his inaugural address, Reeve Huke issued an appeal to those people in the township who have been withholding their tax payments so the new council "can get on with the business of the Township". Currently, more than $400,000 in taxes are in arrears.

The new council was faced with a lengthy agenda for its first meeting, more than it could address by the time the meeting was adjourned after five hours. They met again three evenings later for another session and a third meeting has been set for this week to finish off the business of that first agenda.

Council reviewed and accepted reports from the Chief Building Official Rolf Stange and Roads Superintendent Wib Rettie as well as the Minutes from the Kinmount Community Centre meeting on November 13. Payments of Roads, General, Parks and Cemetery accounts as well as Kinmount Community Centre expenses were authorized to be paid. Responding to a request by the Kawartha Region Conservation Authority for a representative on its board, Somerville council appointed Leon Wright to represent the Township for a three-year term. A letter from the East Hill Water Works, a group of 16 residences east of Kinmount that share a communal well requested information from council regarding the possibility of a grant to replace some underground pipe lines. Councillor Cameron pointed out that grants for municipal waterworks improvements are hard to come by. Council will contact the group's representative informing him that there are no grants available for a private water system. The group will also be advised that if any work is to be done within the township road allowance, Roads Superintendent Rettie must be notified.

Fund established to help Norland fire victim

by Jerry Grozelle

A fund has been set up at the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce in Cobocok to help the family of Larry Gauci.

The Gauci family business (Larry's Restaurant in Norland) and residence was destroyed by an early morning fire on November 23.

Larry Gauci credits his family's escape from the smoke-filled building to the family dog Sheba. The family pet woke Larry with her barking and he alerted his two daughters who were sleeping down stairs. Virtually none of the family's possessions were saved.

The fire started in the attic of the bungalow-styled building and Laxton, Digby and Longford Township Fire Chief Jim Boyce said that the cause remains undetermined.

"There was no fire (just smoke) until about half an hour after the firefighters arrived," Gauci said, adding that no flames appeared until one of the firemen cut a hole in the roof with a chainsaw. "They (the firefighters) did the best they could."

Gauci said that the property was under-insured and he doesn't expect to get enough to rebuild the business. There was no loss-of-income clause on the insurance policy either, so Gauci has no money coming in.

"It really hurts," Gauci said. "It's not something that's going to be easy to recover from."

Donations to the Gauci fire relief fund can be made at the Cobocok branch of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce.

Editorial

The three rookie politicians on Minden's newly-elected council have not had an easy introduction into municipal politics.

At last Thursday's meeting, council considered the question of how to accommodate the annual influx of snowmobilers into the village and, at the same time, respect the needs of residents who are concerned about noise and safety.

This issue is a symptom of a much larger dilemma facing Haliburton County: How to foster economic prosperity based on tourism and recreational development while at the same time protecting the tranquil environment which is one of the county's biggest drawing cards.

The Haliburton County Snowmobile Association is the largest such organization in the world and each weekend thousands of people from southern Ontario flock to the area and take to their machines to enjoy the snow and scenery.

And more importantly, they spend money - lots of it. Snowmobiling is a cost-intensive hobby with significant financial spin-offs in equipment sales and repairs, fuel, food and accommodation which result in millions of dollars being pumped into the local economy each winter.

But, as lucrative as snowmobiling is to businesses, it does not come without its costs and drawbacks. Snowmobiles can be noisy and present a potential risk to drivers and pedestrians during the winter. And, as with any group of people, there is a small minority of individuals who are inconsiderate of private property, ignore traffic laws and operate their machines in a manner which is dangerous to themselves and others.

So for Jean Anthon, Grant Ploard and Jerry Rome, this issue will test their ability to weigh the economic good of the community against the rights of the individuals who are being asked to bear the costs in terms of their peace and safety.

With Minden in the midst of a recession and facing an uncertain winter of climbing unemployment and welfare rates, it is imperative that some compromise be found which will be in the best interest of all residents. Council should not be expected to tackle this problem alone. The key to finding a solution is a spirit of compromise, understanding and cooperation on the part of all players.

Lost moose catalogue is a collection of Yukon lore

Here are two infallible ways to tell that Christmas is coming. Number one: every shopping mall you pass is playing a tinny version of The Little Drummer Boy, by the Harry Simeon Chorale. Number two: every time you turn around you stumble across another brand new Canadian book, freshly published in the hope that you'll buy it to stuff in somebody's stocking.

Sure are a lot of them out there. Pierre Berton, of course. And Margaret Atwood. And Peter Newman. Kurt Brown-ing and Darryl Sittler to boot.

Heck, even I have a seasonal hardcover offering, currently teetering half-way between the New York Times Bestseller List and the Coles Remainders Table.

But the Canadian book that's captured my heart this year isn't an Ottawa expose or a Maritimes novel or the

by Arthur Black

memoirs of some Bay Street robber baron.

It's a catalogue.

In fact, its official title is Another Lost Whole Moose Catalogue.

The ALWM Catalogue is difficult to describe. Physically, it's 156 pages of print and photographs sandwiched between covers that measure ten inches wide and fifteen inches deep — which is to say, large and ungainly.

Kind of like a moose.

As for the material between the covers... that's REALLY difficult to describe. You can figure out how to build a log cabin in this catalogue. You can also learn how to make moose meat pasta, where to place your outhouse and how to say "this is a moose" in Athapaskan dialect.

The catalogue was conceived, birthed and nurtured in the Yukon. It bills itself as a collection of Yukon lore that should get anyone, from greenhorn to sourdough, safely through a bad winter in the Great White North.

Well, Another Lost Whole Moose Catalogue will probably do that alright — but just between you and me, you don't have to be a Yukoner to get your fancy tickled by this book.

That's because the compilers stirred in one tangy ingre-

NDP policy deals lethal blow to Ontario's natural resources

The following is a copy of a letter sent to Ontario's Minister of Natural Resources Bud Wildman by local resident Walter Griffin, regarding the government's policy on fish and wildlife management.

Dear Mr. Wildman:

I have just read Dennis Drainville's Diarrhea and feel that I must write a letter to Bob Rae, the leader of the NDP Bud Wildman, the Minister of Natural Resources, and the Minister of Indian Affairs, and to our local MPP Dennis Drainville, the terrible trio of the NDP.

I am writing this letter to beg you to change your policy of no management of OUR fish and game resources.

Not only are you going to ruin our forestry programs (closing of Orono, etc...) but you have dealt our future fish and wildlife management lethal blows!

We have virtually no fish and game management left in Ontario. It is most unfortunate that you do not have the backbone to make long range decisions that will benefit all of Ontario. Your policy of allowing the Indians virtually to go above the law that governs for the good of Ontario and Canada cannot and will not be condoned by the Canadian population that lives outside of Urban Toronto.

I work on the lakes most of the year, and doing this I talk to literally hundreds of people, and I've met only ONE that thought Indians should have unlimited or even limited special rights to the fish and game of our once great province. This man lives in Toronto. It was his first time "up north" fishing. He had just stuck a hook in his arm and in a painful manner it had been removed. The black flies were very friendly and this Urbanite felt that this land wasn't fit for anyone to live in, and if the Indians wanted it they could have it.

Unfortunately, this was THE ONLY person I talked to that felt that the Natives could or should have anything special.

I work from Apsley and Bancroft through Haliburton and Minden over to Bracebridge Lake Rosseau and Joseph and nobody is in favour of your current policies.

By the way, I am of Indian origin and I still feel it is wrong to settle these land claims, and it is obvious that your policies are going to cause a lot of racism.

I, and 99 per cent of the people, implore you to make everyone equal.

If the Indian society is strong, it will survive another hundred years by itself and if it is really strong, it will flourish. It is wrong to give the squeaky wheel all the oil.

I hope that you will have the intestinal fortitude to make decisions that are for the best for Ontario and Canada.

Your present policies spell gloom and doom to Ontario's future and are very harmful to all of Canada.

Just a little afterthought.

If the Indians get any of these special perks and get self-government:

1) What about the hundreds of millions of dollars we have spent supporting these people? Do they repay some or all of it?

2) Do we have to keep on paying support for these people if they have a self-government?

3) If they get self-government and become separate nations; what about their share of the national debt? (Much of it is incurred to keep these people.) Shouldn't they have to pay their personal share of the debt before leaving the sinking ship of Canada?

Yours truly,
Walter Griffin,

School accommodation a priority

Editor:

The Archie Stouffer Home and School Association has decided to make the accommodation concerns a priority.

We feel that the public input is an important factor which should be considered when decisions of such a large concern are being made.

The Home and School would like to be the association to host an open public meeting for all of our concerned parents.

Perhaps in the near future we will be able to give you a time and date.

Editor:

Please accept my apologies for being so late. As the chairperson of the Haliburton County Studio Tour, I would like to take this opportunity to thank The Times and particularly Susan Wilson for their support and marvelous write-up on the tour and its participants.

I would also like to convey appreciation to the businesses who supported us by displaying posters and handing out pamphlets; to Shirley Walker of Stedmans for noting the dates of the Tour on receipts; to Kim Ward of Wig-a-mog Inn for the support and encouragement.

To everyone who helped support and promote the 1991 Studio Tour, your efforts are very much appreciated.

PST not paid unknowingly

Editor:

Re: an article appearing in your paper, December 9/91.

I believe the example given by Vick Festing, a so-called top advisor with the ministry's head office, is incorrect.

He states: "However, the store owner then calculates that of the $100 paid, $7.41 was the amount of the PST and $92.59 was the actual retail price. In this way the customers has actually paid the tax, without realizing it."

I maintain of the $100 sale, seven per cent GST = $7, eight per cent PST = $8, total $15 taxes, the retailer pays $15 in total taxes, the customer pays $100, as her sale indicated. The customer is not misled to believe she pays $92.59 for her merchandise.

Yours truly,
Vince Connaughan,

Book speaks to every Canadian's northern soul

dient not commonly found in catalogues — a sense of humour.

You can find a serious essay entitled "Dog in Pick-ups". (Opening paragraph: "Every real Yukoner has a real pickup. Not one of those wimpy little tin cans from J.A. Pan that gets 30 miles to a fart.")

And another about "Safe Sex in the Yukon" (Important tip: never leave condoms in your glove compartment at 40

In fact, Another Lost Whole Moose Catalogue is only marginally about moose. Its central theme is something infinitely more important. It's about The North — which I think is what being Canadian is all about.

Every Canuck has The North in his soul. Doesn't matter if it turns out to be the Arctic Barrens or the Haliburton Highlands. Sure, most of us eke out our MacDonaldized lives within a couple of hours drive of the US border, but that doesn't change what's in our backyard: The North. It's always there and it shapes us all for life. "A window out onto infinity" the French historian Andre Siegfried called it.

Well, this book is sort of a family album from the other side of the windowpane.

Three sell-out performances

Choir delights audiences with Christmas favourite

While the decorations may have been up for weeks and the popular songs of the season filling the airwaves, for many, the Christmas season didn't really start until this past week.

The event which marked the beginning of the festive season was the presentation of Handel's Messiah by a local choir of one hundred. The three performances, to full halls, took place at the Haliburton Legion.

Under the direction of Melissa Stephens, the performances marked the culmination of months of practise, hard work and organization. The audience was amply rewarded with the efforts of the choir members as the hall filled with the inspiring music of George Frederic Handel.

Bill Gliddon, well-known music teacher and composer, accompanied the vocalists on the organ.

The three performances were quickly sold out. Just 13 days after the tickets went on sale, all of the seats had been claimed and those who were slow to order their seats were left begging for another performance. The members of the choir were asked if they would consider an additional presentation to accommodate those who missed buying tickets for the first three. However, the schedules of choir members, and the fact the organ used for the performance would not be available after December 15, made it impossible to squeeze in another.

Three sell-out audiences were rewarded with a delightful Christmas tradition last week when the Haliburton Messiah Choir presented Handel's oratorio at the Haliburton Legion. Organist Bill Gliddon can be seen at the right, while conductor Melissa Stephens leads the choir members through this challenging composition.

Handel's oratorio is considered a challenging piece of music, to say the least. It requires a full range of musical abilities by the chorus and tests the musical skills of the soloists. When last Sunday's performance was complete, there was no doubt the members of the choir had more than met the challenge of Handel's composition as the audience leapt to its feet offering the singers, organist and conductor an extended standing ovation.

Among the featured soloists were: John Miller, tenor; Jock Mavor, bass; Chris Archer, contralto; Wayne Cooper, bass; Anna Edwards, soprano; Lauren McInnes, soprano; Ruth Lewis, contralto; Fran Clark soprano; Donna Jowett, contralto; Peter Forgrave, tenor; Lorelyn Morgan, contralto; Susan Wilson, soprano; Ed Moll, bass; Jane Symons, contralto; and Glen Carter tenor.

The highlight of the evening was the well-known Hallelujah Chorus. As tradition dictates, the audience rose as the choir filled the hall with the glorious strains of this familiar song of praise.

While many were unable to enjoy the music of the oratorio this year, it would appear the chorus will become a semi-permanent fixture in the Highlands. Choir manager Wayne Cooper said there seems to be interest in attempting other choral projects, which could include performances at various times of the year. He noted the Messiah was a major undertaking, and it would be difficult to mount it every year. There is a plan in the works for the presentation of the musical "Camelot" next November, which would likely involve key people involved in the Messiah production. He suggested the way is open if other people are interested in becoming involved.

Half of the funds generated by this year's performance of the Messiah will be donated to the food banks in Minden and Haliburton. The choir members have also voted to place the remainder in a trust for the construction of a proper performance hall in the county. Cooper said he realized this is a long-term project, but said the members of the group felt it was important to lay the groundwork now for such a facility.

Red ribbon offers a better way to tie one on this holiday season

There is a group of people out there who would like you to tie one on this Christmas.

However, they would like you to take a different meaning from that expression and show your concern with drinking drivers.

A campaign, sponsored by PRIDE (People to Reduce Impaired Driving Everywhere) and MADD (Mothers Against Impaired Driving), asks drivers to attach a red ribbon to their vehicle's radio antenna, or to some other visible location on the exterior of their vehicle, as a reminder to others using the highway not to drink and drive. "The ribbon represents a commitment to safe, sober driving....and reminds others to do the same," a spokesman for the organizing committee said. "We want to give new meaning to the expression, 'tie one on.'"

The local effort is being spearheaded by the Minden Rotary Club with Bill Obee co-ordinating. He has a supply of ribbons for distribution to those willing to show them during the holiday season. The campaign runs until January 22.

Member of Ontario Students Against Impaired Driving (OSAID) were also involved in the ribbon program. A large number were handed out during the Santa Claus Parade in Haliburton.

A number of fleet owners in the province have agreed to take part in the awareness campaign. Among those flying the red ribbon this season will be Canada Post, Bell Canada, Ontario Trucking Association, OPP, Ontario ambulances, Charterways, Laidlaw Transport and others.

The Rotary Club has placed a supply of ribbons for the public at the Minden IDA drug store and the LCBO. The public is invited to take the free ribbons. If they wish they can also make a donation to help support the campaign against drunk driving.

"By all means, tie one on this Christmas," Bill Obee suggests, "tie a red ribbon on your antenna and take a stand against drinking and driving."

Minden Rotarian Bill Obee attached a red ribbon to his car's antenna as a symbol of his concern about drinking and driving.

Police association fights budget cuts, hiring freeze

The Ontario Provincial Police Association announced recently that they have contracted a team of Canada's top communicators to get a message to the Government of Ontario.

Faced with budget cuts; a hiring freeze and redeployment of personnel to non police and proactive duties, the Association feels the safety and wellbeing of Ontario's public is in great jeopardy.

Bob Hunter, Chief Executive Officer of the 4,500 strong Association said, "Enough is enough. This profession has persevered through two governments that created an unbelievable situation for the public. Our goal is to bring the problems of maintaining a safe living environment for the public to the current government. This will be done in such a manner that there will be no doubt Policing, especially as it pertains to the Ontario Provincial Police, must become a prime concern of the Rae government, targetted for affirmative action, immediately!"

"Our consultants do not need to tell us what to say, we have gathered ten years worth of inaction, broken promises and horror stories. They will be telling us how to say it, when to say it and who to say it to."

The team is led by Eric Conroy, who has been a prime communication consultant for the Canadian Association of Chiefs of Police since 1984.

Creative Director is Chris Hughes of the Chris Hughes Company, an Award Winning Canadian Ad Agency.

The third member of the team is Jack McGaw, a TV producer and well-known 'on air' T.V. personality.

"Our recommended strategy is to make sure the right questions are asked of the right people as a result of the presentation of the Ontario Provincial Police association's information," said Conroy. "These men and women put their live out for us every day, but lack of support by past governments, current budget restraints and a population ill informed of the circumstances has put them in a real 'rock and a hard place' situation."

The information campaign is being funded by Association assets which will be made available in sufficient amounts to make sure the job is done and right.

Bob Hunter, as the Association's spokesman, says that no more comments will be made until all avenues have been explored and the government has had ample opportunity to respond.

Big buck prizes awarded at dance

Peter Scheffee has won the Tommy's Big Buck Contest sponsored by disc jockey Tommy Williamson and the Minden Kinsmen Club. The winner was presented with a cash prize of $100 and trophy at the Kinsmen's Hunter's Ball held November 16 at Medley's Dance Hall in Carnarvon. The winning entry weighed in at 237.1 pounds.

The annual contest attracted 12 entries this year, with the weights ranging down to 171 pounds.

The entries were weighed at the Four Seasons Country Store in Carnarvon and at Coneybeare's Butcher Shop in Minden.

Trophies for second and third place finishers were awarded to Daryl Brohm of Kirkland Lake from the Hole in The Wall Hunt Club, with a buck of 201.5 lb. and Jack Prentice of Minden of the Thomas Hunt Club at 198.5 lb. To receive a trophy, the contest participants had to be in attendance at the dance.

Other entries received included: John Kernohan of Minden, from the Red Deer Hunt Club, 222 lb.; Brian Hogg of Minden, 215 lb.; Clayton Cameron of Minden, 211 lb.; Eugene Halsetead of Bewdley, from the T-10 Hunt Club, 207 lb.; Lester Shelly of Niagara Falls from the Pine Springs Hunt Club, 195.1 lb.; John Sisco of Toronto, from the Anson Quota Busters Hunt Club 192.1 lb.; Ken McKay of the Buck Ridge Hunt Club, 191.2 lb.; John Sisco of Toronto, from the Anson Quota Busters Hunt Club, 189 lb.; Wayne Shelly of Minden, from the Pine Springs Hunt Club, 171.8 lb.

Proceeds from the contest and dance will be used for the Kinsmen Cystic Fibrosis fund and community projects.

Columnist will officiate at sled dog derby

Arthur Black, Times humour columnist and host of the popular CBC Radio show "Basic Black" will be Honorary Race Marshal at the 1992 Minden Techni-cal Challenge Sled Dog Derby to be held January 11 and 12.

In this august capacity, Mr. Black will assist at the bib draw on Friday night at the Rockcliffe Tavern, at which the mushers draw numbers to determine their starting order the next morning. He will also play a prominent role in the official ceremonies just prior to the start of the first heat at 10:00 a.m. on Saturday.

Mr. Black's duties will not be so onerous, however, that they keep him from recording the excitement of the eighth running of the Minden Techni-cal Challenge for his show. Two producers, John Stinchcombe and Colleen Woods, will be working with the show's genial host to tape interviews with mushers, organizers, sponsors, townsfolk, and spectators, bringing the sounds of the world's largest limited-class speed sled-dog race to "Basic Black's" nationwide audience. It is expected that the program will be aired the following Saturday, January 18. "Basic Black" is heard from 10:00 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. in the Ontario region.

But of course, the people who actually come to the Minden Techni-cal Challenge will be able to see all the excitement for themselves (as well as having a chance, perhaps, to get themselves on the radio).

The start/finish line right in the centre of Main Street provides everyone with a ringside view of the action, as up to 100 mushers from coast to coast on both sides of the border compete in the eight-dog and four-dog classes for a piece of the $25,100 purse provided by race sponsor, Martin Pet Foods Inc. of Elmira, Ontario.

Racing takes place throughout Saturday and Sunday. The delightful kid-and-mutt race is held on Saturday afternoon, after the official heats in the eight-and four-dog classes.

In addition, visitors can enjoy demonstrations of kick-sledding and chat with "Drifter" the race mascot. "Catch The Drift", a song written and recorded by local musicians, will be the theme song for the entire weekend.

RIDE program underway for holiday season

The festive season is fast approaching — a time when the Ontario Provincial Police wants to ensure our highways are as safe as possible.

From December 1, 1991, R.I.D.E. (Reduce Impaired Driving Everywhere) check stops will be a common sight and with good reason, since more than one quarter of the fatal accidents in this district this year have involved alcohol.

Party-goers are strongly encouraged to travel by taxi, public transit or with a "designated driver".

Motorists can also do your part to help us by ensuring you and your passengers are properly seatbelted each time you use the car. O.P.P. patrols will be strictly enforcing seatbelt violations as part of an ongoing campaign to increase compliance and reduce the statistics of injury and death.

Let's work together to make Christmas 1991 a safe and happy holiday season.

Putting the wraps on Christmas

Darlene Fearrey is one of a number of volunteers who are helping to wrap up Christmas in Haliburton. She has donated her time to help out at the 4 C's Christmas gift wrapping service which is now in operation. For a small fee, shoppers can have their gifts done up in decorative packaging and help the less fortunate. All the proceeds from the project will go to the 4 C's Christmas Fund. Wrapping supplies have been donated so all proceeds will go to the worthy cause. The wrapping service is located in the Dawson Gray Building (use the side entrance), 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Wednesday to Saturday.

Times on top

The Times continues its dominance over the Minden Men's Recreational Hockey League following last Monday night's action.

The Times added another victory to their record defeating Kountry Double D Catering 4-3. In other Monday night games, Hartwick Construction doused Westside Jug City 6-2 and Home Hardware took Sid Stamp Fuels 6-3.

Barry Boice and Kevin Hamilton led the charge for the Hartwick team in the opening game of the evening, scoring a pair of goals each. Boice also picked up an assist. Jeff Stamp scored a single and was credited with three assists while the other goal was an unassisted effort by Jason Stamp. Assists were also awarded to Dave Dollo with a pair, and Tom Miscio with a single.

Rob Crowe was in net for Hartwick.

Lorne Burgess and Jeff Howe claimed the scoring honours for Westside. Assists were credited to Ron May, Jerry Campbell and Ed Gibbons. Ron Telford was the Westside goalie.

Derek Moore managed two goals as he led The Times to the top of the league standings. Other Times markers came from Kelly Gilles and Jim Crawford, with an unassisted effort. Picking up assists were Ivan Ingram, Craig Crowe and Dan Read.

Andrew Burk was in The Times net.

Double D made a valiant attempt to even the score, notching two of their three markers in the final period.

However The Times was able to hold off the attack and secure the win. Tom Haley scored two goals for Double D, one unassisted, while the third went to Tim Hunter. Picking up assists were Andy McKenzie and Dave Crego.

Duane Lennie was the Double D netminder.

In a close, see-saw battle, Home Hardware managed to notch two additional goals and earn a 6-4 win over Sid Stamp Fuels in the final contest of the night.

Louie Reynolds and Dave Rogers each scored a pair of goals for Home with Dean Hewitt getting a single, unassisted, and Ben Manuge picking up the other. Hewitt also assisted on three other markers.

Garry Harrison was also busy for Home, figuring in four of the six goals. Glen Hall picked up a single assist.

Terry Crowe was the Home netminder.

Despite the loss, Joachian Matyssek picked up a hat-trick for Sid Stamp, with the other marker going to Kim Colliss. Ted Vasey and John Fedeski each assisted on a pair of goals while singles went to Larry Sawyer and Andy Campbell.

Kevin Smith was in nets for Sid Stamp.

Men's league action continues through the festive season as the holidays do not impact on the Monday night games. This Monday (December 16) Stamp plays The Times in the opening game at 8 p.m., Home takes on Hartwick in the 9 p.m. match and Double D and Westside square off at 10 p.m. Admission to the games is free.

Janene Garbutt of the Minden Figure Skating Club has passed her Bronze Artistic test.

Artistic skating is a form of skating in which emphasis is placed on skaters' ability to use their skills to interpret music rather than on technical prowess.

The objective was for the Ontario Figure Skating Association (OFSA) to expand its programs to include tests which would encourage creativity and interpretation of music rather than technical difficulty.

The new artistic tests add a new dimension to the traditional skating tests, and provide an outlet for those skaters who are weak jumpers but may be good at interpreting music. It will also give skaters some additional goals to work toward.

The levels of artistic tests are: Bronze — (must be 12 years old); Silver — (must be 14); Gold — (must be 16); and Masters — (must be 25).

Janene skated to the music of Cats, and wore the full make-up of a Cats costume.

Janene has won medals with her purr-formance, and the club congratulates her on passing the first level of the artistic test program.

Pee Wees lose 3-1 to Haliburton

On Tuesday, December 10, the Minden OMHA Pee Wees travelled to Haliburton for a 7 p.m. game. It was a fast back and forth game, but Minden just couldn't seem to get it together to stop the determined Haliburton boys. Minden only managed to put one goal past the Haliburton goalie.

This goal was in the third period, scored by Daniel Howell, assisted by David Raback. Nice shot Daniel!

Final score, Haliburton 3, Minden 1. This was the first regular season game the boys have lost. Better luck next time boys!

Our next home game is on Saturday, December 21 at 3:30 p.m. against Ops. Come on out and support minor hockey. You won't be disappointed!

Redmen edge Fenelon 8-7

An exciting third period rally gave the HHSS Redmen an 8-7 win over the Fenelon Falls Falcons Wednesday evening, December 4, at the Dysart arena.

This win, coupled with an earlier tie last Monday evening has given the Redmen four wins, two losses and a tie so far this season.

The winning goal was scored by Redmen stalwart Jason Billings who connected on a pass from Jeff Black and Jonathon Bishop with just 36 seconds left to play in the game. The team had gone into the third period trailing 7-4, following a loosely played opening two periods. Something coach Ron Yake said in the dressing room during the break obviously had an impact on the players, because when they stepped back on the ice they held the Falcons in check and added four goals to their total to take the contest.

While Billings took the spotlight with the game-winning goal, Kevin Morissette, provided a major boost for the team, scoring three goals and an assist. One of his goals came during the third period rally.

Wyatt Nesbitt notched a pair for the Redmen while singles went to Darren Johnson, who also picked up an assist, and Ray Cook.

Other Redmen picking up assists included Mark Morissette with four, Bishop with three, a pair for Black and single from Chad Burden, Jamie Dollo and Andy Billings.

Jason Billings scored two goals during the Monday night game against I.E. Weldon, Jamie Dollo assisted on both goals with Ray Cook picking up a second assist on one.

Kevin Morissette scored the other goal for the Redmen with assists going to Mark Morissette and Cook.

The Redmen play two games this week. They take on Kenner of Peterborough at the Dysart Arena Wednesday evening, December 18, and travel to Norwood for a game Thursday December 19.

Instruction certificates awarded

Two members of the Minden Figure Skating Club are now certified Senior Advanced Canskate/Canfigureskate instructors.

Andrea Pawluch and Cori Barkwell have completed the Senior Advanced Canskate/Canfigureskate Leadership Clinic, which was held in Lindsay on August 23, 24, and 25, 1991.

This clinic for 15-year-olds and up is designed to enhance teaching skills by encouraging these people to "live to the teaching experience."

These instructors were exposed to many new ideas about teaching Canskate or Canfigureskate in their club.

The Canskate committee of the Canadian Figure Skating Association (CFSA) has decided to make this clinic a pre-requisite to the Level 1 programs (which professional coaches need).

To qualify, the skaters had to be certified Canskate/Canfigureskate instructors; 15 years old by November 1st; know the male and female steps of the preliminary and junior bronze dances; coached for a minimum of two years as certified instructors; and completed their second figure, preliminary freeskate and junior bronze dances.

This learning weekend involved many hours of intense instruction and enjoyable group activity.

Cori Barkwell and Andrea Pawluch are now certified Senior Advanced Canskate/Canfigureskate instructors. The pair completed a leadership clinic for 15-year-olds and up in Lindsay during the summer.

Skaters compete

On Saturday, December 7, five skaters from the Minden Figure Skating Club competed at the annual Santa Skate in Port Carling.

The results are as follows:

Tristan Pawluch — PrePreliminary Men FS: first Louise Howell — PrePreliminary Ladies FS: second

Jody Reid — Preliminary Ladies FS: second

Katrina Matysek — Preliminary Ladies FS: eighth
Janene Garbutt — Sr. Bronze Ladies FS: first

Sr. Bronze "A" Ladies Elements: first

We congratulate these skaters on a job well done!

Four local bowlers join regional team

Four Haliburton County bowlers have earned places on the 1000 Lakes Zone bowling teams which will take part in a province-wide competition next year in Hamilton. Marie Thompson will bowl on the ladies team, Bruce Cummings is a member of the men's team and Ron Robinson and Marlene Robinson have gained berths on the mixed team. All bowl at Camarvon Lanes.

The four were among bowlers from throughout the area who competed December 8 at the Labatts Blue Light Five Pin Open at Bowlaway Lanes in Lindsay.

The competition included local bowlers as well as participants from Bancroft, Fenelon Falls, and Lindsay.

The all-day competition proved to be an exciting event with the leads changing a number of times. The quality of the bowling was exceptionally high, with at least 21 of the participants turning in 300 plus scores.

In the final team selection were a number of rookie bowlers, including Marie Thompson of Camarvon Lanes.

The teams will include:

Ladies: Anna Marie Geary, Liz Parker, Karen White, all of Lindsay, Kay Osler, Coleen Osler and Nora Reale of Fenelon Falls and Marie Thompson of Camarvon.

Men: Paul Brown, Kevin McGill, Mark White, Rod Thompson, Marty Overwijk all of Lindsay, Mike Wilson of Fenelon Falls and Bruce Cummings of Camarvon.

Mixed: Gary Graham, Val McGee, Bill Shipman all of Lindsay, Archie Hynes of Fenelon Falls, Bob Easton of Bancroft, Ron Robinson and Marlene Robinson of Camarvon.

Tournament director was Jackie Hawkins assisted by Sam White and Danny Zigomanis.

Award recognizes many contributions

by Susan Grober

The list of Jock Mavor's volunteer contributions to the community is seemingly endless.

In recognition, he's been chosen as the 1991 Stanhope Citizen of the Year — but Mavor modestly says he's just being neighbourly.

Mavor is a member of the Stanhope Fun Day committee, chairman of the 125th anniversary committee, a tutor with the Haliburton Highlands Literacy Program, a participant in the local Highland Games, a supply preacher at many churches, a regular entertainer at the county's local senior citizens' homes, and a former township councillor.

For these efforts, and more, the Stanhope resident was honoured last Saturday with a plaque at the township's annual Christmas banquet.

To say the least, Mavor was surprised to be chosen. He wasn't even sure if he would be attending the banquet this year.

"I've been asked to the dinner every year since I was on council, but I didn't know if I'd be asked this year," he says. "But I was out in my driveway, and (former reeve) Harry Davis came by and said: 'Jock, would you do me a favour? I'd like to take it easy this year, so would you MC the dinner?'"

So Mavor took on the task as Master of Ceremonies, until Davis asked if he may introduce the new council and the Citizen of the Year.

"I went to step off the podium, and he said, 'No, stay here.' My wife and I were discussing that afternoon who we thought would be chosen. But I never had an inkling it would be me."

Mavor was thrilled to receive the award, and considers it quite an honour. "This came a total shock to me. We have a tremendous number of volunteers in this township, so I was so appreciative that they thought I was worthy of Citizen of the Year."

Mavor is well-known in the community, but he has actually only been a permanent resident for seven years.

Born in Scotland, Mavor and his wife, Betty, married in 1946 and came to Canada three years later.

Mavor made the move because he had developed a "youthful wanderlust" after serving in the Far East during the war. "I spent time in India, Burma, Uganda and North Africa. And I came back feeling unsettled."

When he discussed his wish to move with Betty, the couple decided to either go to Rhodesia or Canada. "We chose by the toss of a coin. I'd been to Rhodesia, and I liked the warm climate. But I guess I wanted to go to North America, because I'd never been there before."

The young married couple had very little money. But Mavor isn't one to sit on his laurels and wait for things to happen. Instead, he follows his dreams. So they scraped together what money they had, and moved to the land of opportunity.

"When you're young you have a desire to see the world," he says. "The most difficult part is making the decision to do it, and once you do you find a way to do it."

The couple came to Canada in June of 1949, "and got off the plane in Montreal with exactly $40 in our pockets."

They arrived in East York on a Sunday, and Mavor immediately set to finding a job. On Monday he began a "temporary" job with the local bus lines... and ended up retiring as a supervisor with the Toronto Transit System 33 years later.

In the 1950s, the Mavors bought a half acre of land "with a desire to build our own home" on Eleanor Avenue, near Warden in Scarborough.

"We bought the land directly from a farmer. He wanted a hundred dollars down, and we had no money."

Mavor asked his boss for an advance on his vacation pay, and the man gave him the money, saying: "Give me that back when you can afford it."

But Mavor was very naive in those days, and never considered how he would pay off the rest of the money for the land. He explained this predicament when he offered the down payment to the farmer, a Mr. Gooderham.

The farmer, whose grandfather had originally purchased the property as Crown land for $1 an acre, was very understanding.

"He asked if I could afford $10 a month, and I said I could. So he took out a Woolworth's notebook and pencil, and wrote the agreement. And that was the only legal document we had until the land was paid for."

Mavor and his wife bought a trailer, and moved in. And with a pick and a shovel, he dug out the basement by hand for his new home, "because I couldn't afford the bulldozer."

"I worked 17 hours a day, seven days a week," says Mavor, who got help from his brother. "That's what I had to do to build my home."

In those days, land cost $600 for half an acre, and $1,000 for a, acre. Mavor had wanted to purchase the full acre, but the bank said he was crazy because nothing would ever come out of the property.

At the time, the location was mostly farmland. "I could look out my window and watch the cows grazing in the farmer's fields next door." Today, the Warden Avenue area is a busy part of the booming city of Scarborough. "I learned never to listen to banks."

Most people starting out today would never dream of building their own home by hand. "Expectations are greater today with young people," says Mavor. "But I guess that's our fault, because of our desire to give our children what we didn't have."

It was while living in Scarborough that the Mavors began doing community work, when they joined Wexford Presbyterian Church.

"We saw a need for an outreach program, so with three fellows we formed the Glad Tidings Gospel Group, and visited homes, hospitals, and missions."

It was around that time that Mavor became a lay preacher, a duty which he says helps bring him in touch with people.

"I do quite a lot of lay preaching up here," he says. Quite a lot is right. Mavor supply preaches at Haliburton, Lochlin, and Ingoldsby United Churches, West Guilford Baptist, Eagle Lake Community Church, Lakeside Baptist, Haliburton Wildlife Reserve for the Kennis Lake Ratepayers Association. He also does church services at Hyland Crest Senior Citizens' Home, when required, and led the prayer at the inaugural meeting of Stanhope council.

In Scarborough, Mavor also became involved with the Scottish dancers, and still kicks his feet up from time to time in the county.

On the third Monday of every month, he entertains with the local Scottish Country Dancers at Extendicare. He does the same on a regular basis at Hyland Crest, as well as making occasional visits to play guitar and sing at both seniors' homes.

Mavor is proud of his Scottish heritage, and enjoys sharing his dancing and singing with others. Each year, he participates in the Highland Games, singing the national anthem, and acting as MC and announcer for the Highland dancing competition.

But Mavor loves to provide all forms of entertainment, and had a solo part in the three local performances of the Messiah. "I'm glad it's over," he says. "It's been quite demanding, both time-wise and on your voice."

Mavor especially enjoys performing old-time songs for the seniors. Last Thursday, he entertained with carols at the Haliburton Seniors' Christmas luncheon.

Jock Mavor is the 1991 Stanhope Township Citizen of the Year.

And through his visits to the seniors' homes, Mavor has become enriched by talking with people and learning about their history.

"There are some very interesting people there. And one of the most important things you learn as a visitor is that everyone is lonely, and everyone likes your attention. When I entertain, I go half an hour before and walk around a bit to speak with everybody."

Ironically, a number of the "senior citizens" Mavor enjoys chatting with are actually younger than he is.

"I'm 70 next birthday in June, but I don't feel like a senior."

However, Mavor doesn't feel his age gives him any special insight in dealing with older people. In fact, he enjoys talking with children just the same.

"Both age groups are fundamentally honest in what they say to you. And, of course, I'm a church-going person, so I believe in love thy neighbour as yourself."

The Mavors have three children, two boys and a girl, and nine grandchildren. His younger son, Martin, also lives in the area and works for Epsilon Satellite.

Before finally retiring, Mavor worked two years as a consultant. But he didn't like having to travel. "I was never home — I decided I wanted my wife's company, and that was that."

The couple had been visiting Haliburton County as cottagers since 1969. And in 1977, they purchased retirement property on North Shore Road, where Mavor built his present home with the help of his neighbour, brother and father.

The Mavors moved here in 1984, and have no intentions of ever leaving.

Some people find it lonely moving to a new area. Not the Mavors, though. They immediately joined Zion United Church, and met a number of new friends.

"I've never felt more welcome anywhere in the world than I do right here. It's a great community to live in," he says.

"We settled in here, and I wasn't here too long before I was persuaded to run for council."

That was six years ago, and Mavor served a three-year term as a Stanhope councillor.

Crimestoppers

The Crimestoppers program established in the County of Victoria has been expanded to include the County of Haliburton. Since September 1991, Crimestopper reports have been included in local newspapers. These reports are of crimes which have occurred in Haliburton County and police need your assistance to solve these crimes. In many cases members of the general public have small bits of information that if given to police would assist in the successful prosecution of the persons responsible.

The Crimestoppers program gives members of the general public an opportunity to pass this information along to police with total anonymity and if, as a result of the information police a successful, a cash award will be given to the tipster. Cash awards are handled by non police personnel and are also done in a fashion that allows the tipster to remain anonymous.

Police cannot do it all, we need the assistance of the general public. If you can help with some information pertaining to a crime that has been committed, call Crimestoppers, give it a try and you will find that you can help prevent crime in the future by helping police catch criminals now.

Remember, crime doesn't pay - but Crimestoppers does.

'It's a great community to live in'

(from page 25)

"I didn't run a second term for council, because I wanted freedom to travel," he says.

Mavor still belongs to the Wexford Presbyterian Church group, and he and his wife have done quite a bit of traveling with fellow church members.

"We went to Israel and Greece. Subsequently, we travel with the group every three years, and we go to Florida and visit Britain every now and then."

As world travellers, the Mavors don't limit their contributions to Haliburton County.

Through the Wexford church, which supported a leprosy mission, they had previous experience with lepers in India, Burma, China and Bangladesh. To this day, the couple has a pact to provide financial support to cure three lepers each year, at a cost of $80-$90 per person.

"I think the leprosy mission has always had a great need, and they've never done any high-pressure advertising for money."

The Hindus believe a person is sick because they are invaded by evil spirits. Mavor recalls a story about a young woman who was cast out by her family because she had leprosy.

She wandered the streets, until finding herself at the gates of a leper colony, where she received help and was converted to Christianity.

A number of years went by, and a man was found outside the colony — it was the woman's husband, who had turned his back on her. Instead of shunning him, the woman put her arms around her husband and helped nurse him back to health.

"Stories like that come around, and give you a great faith in mankind," Mavor says.

Many think leprosy has been abolished through the marvels of modern medicine, but Mavor says this isn't so. "Very few realize there are more lepers today than ever in history. There are 50 million lepers in the world."

Mavor has another project very dear to his heart. After having spent so many years in India, he and his wife provide financial support to an Indian child.

Because females in India "take a back seat to the males," the couple chose to sponsor a little girl.

"The people in India are absolutely wonderful people," says Mavor. "The rural people are basically happy, and generous, but at the same time they struggle in poverty."

Despite all his volunteer contributions, Mavor says he never planned to be so busy during his retirement years.

"I have a problem with saying now when someone asks me for a favour."

He loves the work. "I enjoy dancing and entertaining. And I'm perfectly happy to drive down to Peterborough, or wherever, if someone needs to visit the doctor. So these things are not all chores."

Mavor likes to help out, and keep occupied. "It's never a dull moment. My wife says, 'We weren't retired, we were retreaded.'"

Looking up at a picture of his wife, Mavor says she has supported him in all his accomplishments.

"She's my best friend," he says. "She sings in the Haliburton choir with me, and belongs to the Scottish dance group. We have identical interests, and have been happy for 46 years."

Mavor's plaque for Citizen of the Year reads: "Awarded to the person who has given unselfishly of his or her time and talent towards the betterment of the community in the spirit of good neighbourliness." He shares the honour of his award with Betty.

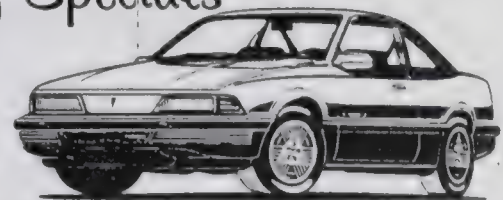

Together, the Mavors have captured their dreams, and are an inspiration for young people today.

Starting out with nothing, they've worked hard over the years. And they are glad to share their good fortune with others.

Clean living and hard work sees Lillian Curry to 103rd birthday

by Susan Grober

Lillian Curry has many accomplishments to her credit since coming to Haliburton years ago.

In those early days, she and her husband, Arthur Gillam, re-opened what is now Banks General Store in Haliburton Village, after it had been vacant for five years.

And she started a Haliburton chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star, which still functions to this day.

But Lillian's most recent accomplishment occurred on December 10, when the oldest resident of Hyland Crest Senior Citizens' Home celebrated her 103rd birthday.

"I'm feeling really good today," said Lillian, who was visited by her niece and nephew, Dot and Mike Horner, of Peterborough.

A non-smoker who abstains from alcohol, Lillian shared her secrets to a long life: "Good food, hard work, and clean living."

After spending years running the general store with her husband, Lillian was no stranger to hard work. As well as providing groceries, the couple ran the post office.

About 10 years after arriving in the village, Gillam became ill and eventually died.

Lillian moved to Wilberforce where she worked for the Red Cross doing sewing.

And in August of 1955, she married again to a man she had become friends with through the Eastern Star, W.R. Curry, who owned and operated Curry Motors.

As she enjoyed a birthday luncheon on Tuesday, Lillian received birthday greetings from Victoria-Haliburton MP Bill Scott and Prime Minister Brian Mulroney.

"Well, bless his heart," she said, as the Home's resident liaison officer, Isabel Keefer, read the letter from Scott.

And Lillian exclaimed "Oh my goodness!" when she learned she also got a letter from the Prime Minister.

So it was a good birthday for Lillian Curry, who when asked whether she feels 103 years old, said: "No I don't. I don't feel that old at all."

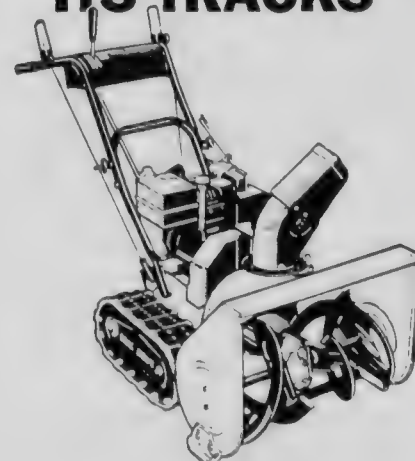

Surrounded by nephew and niece Mike and Dot Horner, Hyland Crest resident Lillian Curry celebrated her 103rd birthday last Tuesday. Along with cake, presents and cards, Curry enjoyed the visit with the Horners, who travelled from Peterborough to share the special day.

Lake contamination draws $1000 fine

A Haliburton County building contractor was fined $1,000 Wednesday, after pleading guilty in Minden court to permitting the erosion of clay and silt into Gull Lake, Lutterworth Township, this past summer.

Charged under the Fisheries Act with the offence of permitting the deposit of a deleterious substance into waters frequented by fish, was John Robinson of Haliburton.

Presiding Provincial Judge G. Inrig, heard evidence that Conservation Officer David Ferguson from the Ministry of Natural Resources in Minden, responding to a complaint of muddy runoff entering Gull Lake, discovered that clay material excavated for the construction of a new home had been deposited at the front of a steep lot fronting on the lake. No apparent attempt had been made to stabilize the material and as a result, a considerable volume had eroded into the lake over the course of the summer.

Clay and silt have been acknowledged in numerous court rulings across Canada to be deleterious substances where the health of fish and their environment are concerned.

These naturally occurring materials can injure fish directly by fouling their gills, but more long term damage may occur to fish populations when clay or silt blanket their spawning areas which for most species consist of gravel or stone. Eggs already deposited there are suffocated by clay or silt and those laid afterwards are likely to be suffocated or lie on top to be eaten by other fish.

Lorne Chester, the Prosecuting Attorney for this case, told the Court that while this was not a direct, intentional attack on the fish habitat, there was, none-the-less, an introduction of a deleterious substance into the lake water.

Chester added that fish habitat loss is now of such great concern that the federal government has increased the maximum fines for the habitat sections of the Fisheries Act to $300,000 when handled as summary conviction offences.

In suggesting the $1000 penalty in this incident, both the Crown and the Defence pointed out that as soon as he had been informed that he was being charged, Robinson took immediate steps to stabilize the material by sodding the slopes where erosion took place.

In handing down the sentence, Judge Inrig said he hoped that the size of the fine would cause other commercial contractors to realize that care must be taken to avoid similar incidents.

Discovering our spiritual connection to the earth

In 1989, my family and I were invited to spend two weeks in a traditional village of Kaiapo Indians deep in the Amazon rainforest.

Once in Brazil, we met anthropologist, Darryl Posey, who had lived with the Kaiapo for years. While talking to him I asked whether there was any chance there might be some kind of festival in the village during our stay. "Oh sure," he replied confidently, "they're always celebrating something or other." He was right.

On the fifth day of our stay, the women of the village sang and danced for half an hour, the first of a three-day "festa" to celebrate fertility of women and Nature. By the third day, the costumes of feathers and beads were elaborate and spectacular and the festivities carried through the entire night.

As it is for many indigenous people, Kaiapo life throughout the year, is regularly punctuated by celebrations that recognize, reaffirm and give thanks to the Earth for its bounty. They honour the changing moon and stars, the succession of plants, the movement of animals and the spawning of fish. With lives so dependent on seasonal variations in animals and plants, the festas serve to emphasize and reinforce their meaning and importance for Kaiapo people.

In Canada, Hallowe'en ghosts, monsters and goblins who flit through the streetlights and streak toward houses decorated with pumpkins, bats and cobwebs, remind us how few occasions we have to think about our biological roots and dependence on nature. Hallowe'en is a chance to reflect on our mortality and death while Thanksgiving gives us an opportunity to ponder the cycle of seasonal changes and our connection with the earth through our food.

The holiday season at the end of the year seems to have become a paean to glitz and consumption but beneath all the commercial hype is an acknowledgment of the importance of things SPIRITUAL.

Secular materialism and economics so dominate our lives these days that we avoid paying enough attention to spiritual matters. Yet there are growing indications of our malnutrition in this part of our life. If you have a chance to go on a whale-watching expedition, spend some of the time looking at the faces of the spectators. You will see expressions of sublime joy and awe, an inexpressible response to something beyond human control, something magnificent and free. When I revisited Chicoutimi a year ago, my Quebecois friends proudly took me to a rehabilitated stream where salmon are once again returning to spawn. An audience of hundreds of villagers cheered the fish on.

Each fall, people come from hundreds of kilometres to witness one of Nature's most spectacular displays, the fall colours of the Haliburton and Muskoka districts in Ontario. What are these but affirmations of our spiritual connection with nature?

Our calendars are sprinkled with holidays, most of them are celebrations of monarchs, important people or events of historical importance. In short, they are times to celebrate some of our "important members" or significant human events. We would do well to emulate the Kaiapo and celebrate the things that really affect our lives, our animal nature, forces that are bigger than us, that we can have an impact on but never control. I'm not suggesting that we return to some kind of Nature worship (although that's not a bad idea), just devote time to celebrate and reflect on things beyond us.

Directions

by Edward Moll

Last summer, the first annual Stockholm Water Prize was awarded to a Canadian, David Schindler, during a two week celebration of water. The Water Festival had wide participation throughout Sweden even though it was a completely new event. The Swedes have deliberately decided to take time off for an annual summer festival celebrating this life-giving liquid. Canadians, with the highest per capita amounts of water of any country in the world, have every reason to inaugurate a similar festival.

For that matter, Federal Environment Minister Jean Charest, should divert the millions spent each year on Environment Week that few people are even aware of, and put the money instead into a series of festivals throughout the year to celebrate air, water, soil, forests, fish and other parts of our environment. "Traditions" usually extend back to antiquity, but every tradition had to have started sometime so why not initiate new ones in praise of our biosphere? And it doesn't all have to be done federally. Each province, each city and town could also celebrate their unique and special relationship with nature. Our greatest needs today are not in material things, they are of a spiritual nature that reconnect us with these forces and factors that make us human and allow us to live out our lives.

Human rights record determines Canada's foreign assistance

Canada's external affairs policy has made our country a world leader on the human rights issue.

At the Francophone Summit in Paris, Prime Minister Mulroney reaffirmed what he told the Commonwealth in Harare: "We (Canada) shall be increasingly channelling our development assistance to those countries that show respect for the fundamental rights and individual freedoms of their people." He also proposed that, in international relations, members of La Francophonie and the Commonwealth give priority to the respect of individual freedoms and human rights.

Since 1987, Canada has

Report from Ottawa

from the office of Bill Scott, MP

strengthen its foreign aid policy and has made human rights an important element of its program delivery.

In 1988, the Minister of External Relations and International Development, Monique Landry, announced SHARING OUR FUTURE, a new policy on aid to developing countries. Since then, the government has been evaluating, every year, the human rights situation in countries receiving Canadian aid. The results help determine how much money they get and which channels the funds will flow through.

As the Prime Minister said in Paris, Canada could stop or decrease its direct aid to countries whose governments commit blatant, systematic and sustained violations of human rights. He also announced Canada will support the establishment of a human rights and democracy unit within La Francophonie.

Canada reacts swiftly when individual freedoms and human rights are violated. For example, all bilateral accords with Haiti were suspended after its democratically elected government was overthrown. Earlier this year, Canada confirmed that financial sanctions against South Africa will be maintained until a democratic constitution is adopted. In another case, Canada suspended the bilateral co-operation program with Zaire, whose government violated the democratic rights of its people.

This approach does not mean that the poorest people in the world are being victimized twice. We will continue to provide humanitarian assistance through non-governmental organizations (NGOs) such as the Red Cross and charitable agencies.

By imposing restrictions on countries receiving funds from Canadian taxpayers, we are strengthening Canada's position as a world leader in human rights.

Residents enjoy Santa Claus parade

Saturday, the last day of November, the Minden Santa Claus Parade was held. Although it was a cold day, there was a good crowd out to enjoy the annual Lions Club parade, especially the children.

As usual, it was very quiet on Sunday, but Rev. John Burgess had chapel service in the evening with Alice Jones

Building decked in festive colour

Halls and doorways at Staunworth Court are decked out for the Christmas season. Many of the residents will be away with family and others are planning a festive dinner together. We will be saying goodbye to Jean and Harry Cowen and Len and Mable Trodd who will be heading for a warmer climate when Christmas is over. Mable Trodd will be celebrating her 80th birthday with her family before they leave.

Three of the Grandfather's Five came to entertain (and entertain they did!) at the Christmas Party. Residents were out in force to enjoy the music and take part in the singing. Members of the Board of Directors and their wives were also present. A very tasty lunch was enjoyed at the conclusion of the evening.

Mr. Ken Leonard represented the Sunday School Mission in Haliburton County was invited to our December meeting and Fred Knight, on behalf of the residents, presented him with a cheque to be used in their Christmas donations to the needy. The residents had agreed they would rather give the money to help where needed, rather than exchange gifts as in past years. Food boxes, placed in our front hall are also being filled for those in our area who are in need at this time of year.

Mel Foster's dart team is leading the contest for top darters in spite of the fact that Siiri, a member of the opposition hit the "bull's eye!" Euchre games continue on Friday evenings followed by coffee and cookies.

We wish you and all a blessed Christmas and a happy New Year.

playing the organ. Thank you John and Alice.

Monday fitness was held in the Trillium Lounge in the morning and Residents Council in the afternoon. It was held in the craft room with a good attendance and several areas of the council were covered. I must say it was encouraging to have Harry Hughes with us. As the president, I thank those who attended and entered into our discussions.

Father Parker performed the Tuesday morning chapel service and communion. We are very grateful to him.

When Isabel Keefer went home Tuesday, she kindly gave me a ride to Terry and Norma's for dinner and Norma and I went to the Baptist Church Christmas party. I saw many of my friends there. They had a happy evening and a delicious lunch. I met Judy Johnson who lives near Minden and saved Terry the trip to bring me home. I do appreciate both rides with Isabel and Judy.

Doris warmed up the bus Wednesday and we had a trip to Kinmount, Gelert, Ingoldsby and home. We stopped at Kawartha Dairy and had our usual ice cream cone.

Pastor Murray held a service in the Trillium Lounge Wednesday evening. The residents thank him very much.

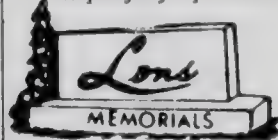

Thursday our tea party was held in the auditorium. The Monday Night Curling ladies prepared and served the delicious tea. The ladies were Zelda Cooper, Merle Codlin, Clare Warren, Katie Parker, Kay Cannon, Marie Lennard and Jankie Thomas. It was concluded by singing Christmas Carols. We thank these ladies very much for bringing us the tea party.

Friday, being Happy Hour, Ed and Bill Pickard came to entertain the residents and their friends by playing the accordion and drums and with delightful singing. Thank you both right from our hearts. Thanks also to the volunteers Ellen and Don Holden, Jankie Thomas, Bonnie Fullan and Mary Guillemain. Everyone surely enjoyed themselves.

MINDEN, ZION, and MAPLE LAKE UNITED CHURCHES

Christmas is a time for memories and remembering. For some, the memories are of beloved family members who have died and the pain of their loss is still real.

For others, the memories are of happier times than we know now, as the anguish of broken relationships or the anxious insecurity of unemployment and poor health cloud this season. We can feel very much alone in the midst of all the celebrating and spending.

We need to remember, and we need the space and place to acknowledge our sadness and concern; and we need to know that we are not alone.

For all these reasons we need a separate time of being together to receive the words of strengthening and hope that speak to us in the midst of sorrow.

The clergy on Zion United church, Carnarvon is therefore offering a special service at 8:30 pm on Friday, December 20th at Zion United Church. It is a time to acknowledge a "Blue Christmas."

Be with us to hear and share prayers, scripture and music to help us remember that God's presence is for those who mourn, and God's word comes to give light to our darkness.

The service will be followed by a brief time for light refreshment. Please accept this invitation to be with us.

Beast wishes to Barbara Berry who is recovering from her illness at the home of her son Bern.

Ralph Young and Tim Burk had a recent visit to Toronto.

Bessie Burk tells us that her great grandson Aaron Donaldson who is just 4 years old, played in his first hockey game in Wilberforce. Relatives there included Bessie, Norma and Neil Burk, Alie Burk and Tim Hunter, Andrea Burk and Renee Curry and someone remarked that Aaron had the largest cheering section.

Weekend guests with Edna McElwain and the Lloyd Sedgwicks were Mylford McElwain, Mary Anne and Phil Morris of Brampton, Craig and Marg Gartshore of Willowdale and Ron and Marlene McElwain of Lambeth.

On Friday, December 6, residents of Staunworth Terrace enjoyed their catered Christmas Dinner provided by the Ted Prestons of Area 5. The tables were decorated for the season and Christmas lights glowed on the tree. Gifts were exchanged and entertainment was provided by the Grandfathers 5. Guests arrived and mingled and a social time went on.

Weekend guests with Florence Robinson were Bradley Robinson and Maggie from Toronto.

Winners at the Catholic Church luncheon-bazaar draws were Edna Morgan taking the gift certificate, Linda Salvatori the food basket and Pearl Durant the turkey. This was a very successful event.

Recently Bern, Doreen and Barb Berry attended Barb's granddaughter's wedding in Calgary.

Bob Austin had a great visit with Bessie Burk and they chatted over old times.

There was a 4th birthday party for Ori Cox at the home of grandma Mary Cox. This was a nice get together for the family.

There was a great time at the lounge of Staunworth Terrace on December 8 when my family of five and spouses and friends and grandchildren were there for luncheon. Many were the stories when all joined in telling their favourite tale. The grands were an active bunch and also looked at some old snapshots. It's great to get together at the holiday season. I now have an answering machine so please leave your name and number and I'll get back to you. How do you like my message by the way?

Christmastime is here once more,

With parties and gifts galore,

Families, relatives and neighbours meet,

To exchange their news, when they meet.

Snow was here for a time, But rain and thunder aren't my line.

In winter snow seems better

And gives me time to do that letter.

Yuletide wishes I'd like to send,

My greetings go to all my friends,

So many gladly give me news,

For paper will not ink refuse.

Jay

All the best for health and happiness in this season and good wishes for 1992.
